

Chenguang Wang is postdoctoral associate at the University of Minnesota in Prof. Changquan Calvin Sun's lab since June 2016. He obtained his Ph.D (Medical) from Tongji medical college, Huazhong University of Science and Technology, China in June 2016. His research interests are in improving the developability of active pharmaceutical ingredient through crystal engineering and particle engineering, design and characterization of new pharmaceuticals solid forms.